Brian Prusko (narrator): What is possible when we re-imagine Naper Settlement as a dynamic 21st century experience?

Brian Prusko: Never Settle. The Campaign for Naper Settlement.

Donna Sack (VP, Community Engagement and Audience): Here on our museum campus the 19th century story has already been written. Now it's time to tell the contemporary story of community builders, innovators, and the new pioneers.

Donna Sack: The new Heritage Gateway will be the front door and the hub to Naper Settlement's beautiful grounds.

Debbie Grinnell (VP, Advancement and Campus Development): Naperville's story doesn't end in the 19th or 20th century. In the 21st century, we have exciting new ways for visitors to experience Naperville's story.

Brian Prusko: The new Heritage Gateway will feature an interactive, touch sensitive digital wall, filled with stories, files, photos and archives.

Debbie Grinnell: Just tap or swipe on the digital wall and Naperville's history comes alive before your very eyes.

Debbie Grinnell: The generation of today needs these stories to understand where we've been and give them the inspiration to change our future, to solve the problems, to make the world a better place.

Steve Chirico (Naperville Mayor): Naper Settlement continues to provide education and cultural experiences that are such a huge asset for our community. It's really great for all of us.

Debbie Grinnell: You can make this happen and we need your help. Your gift will help fund the Heritage Gateway and Innovation Hall. This will be a game changer for Naper Settlement and we want you to be a part of it. Together we can make this happen. Never Settle.

Brian Prusko: For more information, please visit NaperSettlement.org, or reach out to us. We look forward to hearing from you.
